Bendix SR-7 park brake modulating valve fitted to Freightliner Argosy, Century S/T and Columbia vehicles

Purpose

1. To advise RTA Inspectors, Vehicle Regulation (IVRs) and Heavy Vehicle Authorised Inspection Station (HVAIS) examiners to inspect Freightliner Argosy, Century S/T and Columbia trucks manufactured between 13 August 2002 and 15 June 2007 to ensure that vehicle safety recall RC647 has been completed by sighting the recall campaign completion sticker.
2. To provide instructions on how to proceed if a recall campaign completion sticker is not affixed.

Background

In February 2008, DaimlerChrysler advised of the implementation of a vehicle safety recall affecting the above Freightliner trucks fitted with the Bendix SR-7 park brake modulating valve.

Freightliner has determined that defects found in the Bendix SR-7 spring brake modulating valve may cause a delay in the application of the parking brake and the vehicle may roll away. Normal service braking is not affected.

Procedures

RTA INSPECTORS

Compare the vehicle's VIN with those on the attached list. If the vehicle is on the list but an RC647 completion sticker is not affixed to the vehicle:

- Issue a major defect notice and attach a yellow defective vehicle label allowing sufficient time to travel to the nearest approved/authorised Freightliner dealer.
- If there is evidence that the park brake is not operating effectively issue a major-ground defect notice and attach a red defective vehicle label. Advise the operator that the vehicle may only be towed/lifted away.

HVAIS EXAMINERS

Compare the vehicle's VIN with those on the attached list. If the vehicle is on the list but an RC647 completion sticker is not affixed to the vehicle:

- Reject the vehicle and issue a white inspection report in the normal manner.
- If there is evidence that the park brake is not operating effectively, nominate a dangerous defect and advise the operator the vehicle may only be towed/lifted away.

Attachment I

Sample of letter sent to owners of Freightliner vehicles subject to Vehicle Safety Recall RC647 – Bendix SR-7 park brake modulating valve

Vehicle Safety Recall RC647- Bendix SR-7 Park Brake Modulating Valve

I am writing to you because our records indicate that you are the owner of a Freightliner vehicle that is subject to a "Vehicle Safety Recall" campaign issued by Daimler Chrysler (RC647).

Registration:

VIN:

The faults identified by the manufacturer Freightliner LLC have been determined to be defects relating to certain Bendix SR-7 spring brake modulating valves. These defects may cause a delay in the application of the parking brake and the vehicle may roll away, resulting in possible personal injury or property damage. Normal service braking is not affected by either condition.

The Roads and Traffic Authority is eager that all subject vehicles are rectified to ensure their safety.

Please contact your preferred Freightliner dealership and organise the necessary rectification work to be carried out, which will be done free of charge.

Should you have any further enquiries on this matter, please contact RTA Centre for Road Safety on (02) 9218 6554 or Fax (02) 9218 6661.

Yours faithfully
